

California Benefit Corporations

What makes a California benefit corporation different?

Purpose: creates a material positive impact on society and the environment, taken as a whole

Accountability: obligates itself to consider not just profits but also environmental and social factors in its actions and operations

Transparency: reports annually on its operations including environmental and social performance using independent, third-party standards

How can my company convert to a California benefit corporation?

Corporations: Existing corporations formed in California or any other state may convert upon approval of at least 2/3 of shareholders.

Other Business Entities: Existing limited liability companies, limited partnerships and general partnerships formed in California or any other state may convert upon approval of at least 2/3 of the holders of every interest in the entity entitled to receive a distribution from the entity.

When can I form or convert to a California benefit corporation?

The California Secretary of State began allowing formation of California benefit corporations on January 3, 2012.

Who can help me form or convert to a California benefit corporation?

Jonathan S. Storper, Partner
415-995-5040 direct jstorper@hansonbridgett.com

Leslie A. Keil, Partner
415-995-5125 direct
lkeil@hansonbridgett.com

Teresa V. Pahl, Partner
415-995-5079 direct
tpahl@hansonbridgett.com

Scott C. Smith, Partner
415-995-5892 direct ssmith@hansonbridgett.com

Hanson Bridgett is a different kind of law firm for a different kind of company. Learn more about us at www.HansonBridgett.com

