

K. Bradley Rogerson Partner

Brad represents clients in a wide range of real estate and real estate finance transactions, including purchase and sale transactions, leasing, equity financing, recourse and nonrecourse lending, securitizations, private lending and investment and real estate related securities offerings.

He has extensive experience representing and advising developers, finance companies, private investors and promoters in connection with negotiating and structuring joint ventures, real estate syndications, mortgage investment pools and debt and equity restructures. Brad is a former Chair and Vice Chair of the California Business Law Section's Standing Committee on Partnerships and Limited Liability Companies and has over fifteen years of experience with the use of pass-through entities in structured real estate and project finance transactions.

Brad devotes a portion of his practice to private mortgage lending and investment and has considerable experience representing California real estate brokers, investment advisors, finance lenders, mortgage funds and other private lenders in connection with licensing requirements, regulatory compliance, audits and enforcement procedures brought by the California Bureau of Real Estate, the California Department of Business Oversight and other regulatory agencies. Brad also serves as Securities Counsel to the California Mortgage Association (CMA) advising the CMA's Board of Directors and working with CMA lobbyists with respect to securities legislation and regulations impacting the private lending industry.
