

Can California's New Law Start A Small Food Business Revolution?

By: Jenara Nerenberg, Fast Company

Cottage food laws--which make it legal to sell food you made at home--aren't actually a new thing. But the passage of a landmark bill in California could lead the rest of the nation toward small batch, artisanal cooking companies run out of people's home kitchens.

Read more

For more information, please contact:

Susan G. O'Neill, Partner
415-995-5037
soneill@hansonbridgett.com