Areas of Focus

Government

Leanne counsels public agencies on environmental services, administrative law, policy development, and intergovernmental relations. She advises on a wide range of public law issues, including regulatory compliance, ethics and open government laws, contract and procurement processes, and public records management. Leanne regularly collaborates with regulators to interpret evolving obligations and negotiate favorable outcomes for public entities, particularly on long-term infrastructure and policy initiatives such as data center development, recycled water expansion, records retention, and emerging technologies like artificial intelligence.
