Martin Metz is Hanson Bridgett's Chief Technology and Innovation Officer, bringing three decades of experience advancing law firm technology. Throughout his career, he has led large, cross-functional technology teams, guided firmwide modernization and cloud initiatives, and advised law firms on technology strategy, knowledge management, and generative AI. An entrepreneur as well as a technology executive, Martin developed the LawPort intranet platform and established one of the industry's earliest eDiscovery companies. His leadership has been recognized by The American Lawyer and the Nashville Business Journal.
